

PARK SLOPE CIVIC COUNCIL

2011 COMMUNITY STATISTICAL SURVEY

In March 2011 The New York Times released results of the U.S. Census Bureau's American Community Survey. This shows data on population, racial and ethnic distribution, households, income, and education everywhere in the United States.

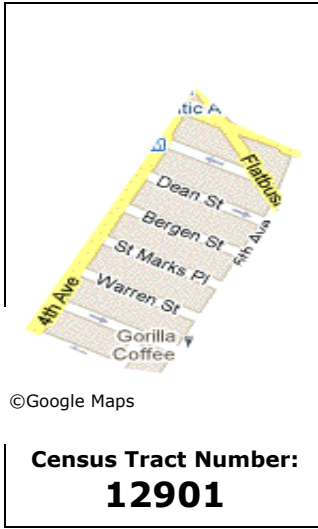

The Park Slope Civic Council decided to tabulate these data for our community and present them in a report. All communities are broken down into Census Tracts, and data are accumulated for each Census Tract. A few of the Census Tracts in this report reach into other communities, but it was decided not to attempt to artificially divide these tracts because (a) we had no scientific basis for doing so, and (b) the chances of the data being significantly different on one side of, say, Flatbush Avenue versus the other, are slight.

Some data might appear to be anomalous. In a few Census Tracts the percentage of households being same-sex couples is reported as zero. Almost certainly the number of such households reported was too small to be statistically significant. A few Census Tracts have a median home value of $1,000,001. It is likely that this figure should read "$1,000,001 and above."

We believe the 2011 Community Statistical Survey will be a valuable tool for understanding better who we are in our community. We welcome your comments and invite you to join us as we work to build community.
